

Medical Research Volunteer - Health Disaster Preparedness

Orange County Health Care Agency

Emergency Medical Services Division

Volunteer Position

The Orange County Health Care Agency, Emergency Medical Services Division, is seeking a dedicated and experienced medical professional to contribute to our Health Disaster Preparedness team as a volunteer. This role is pivotal in developing and refining strategies to ensure optimal healthcare delivery during disasters.

Position Summary

The Medical Research Volunteer will play a crucial role in researching, developing, and recommending field-deployable disaster services. This includes identifying essential supplies and equipment, establishing optimal par levels, and contributing to the overall enhancement of our disaster response capabilities.

Responsibilities

- Conduct in-depth research on disaster medical response best practices and emerging technologies.
- Develop and refine protocols and procedures for field deployable disaster services.
- Collaborate with healthcare providers and emergency management personnel to identify equipment and supply needs.
- Recommend appropriate par levels for medical supplies and equipment based on research and analysis.
- Participate in disaster preparedness exercises and drills.
- Contribute to the development of educational materials for healthcare providers and the public.

Qualifications

- Current, unrestricted Registered Nurse (RN) or Medical Doctor (MD) license in good standing.
- Extensive clinical experience in acute care, emergency medicine, or disaster response.
- Strong analytical and problem-solving skills.
- Excellent written and verbal communication abilities.
- Ability to work independently and as part of a team.
- Commitment to volunteerism and community service.

Commitment

This is a volunteer position requiring a minimum of 8 hours per month. The specific schedule will be determined based on the volunteer's availability and the needs of the program.

How to Apply

Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and a copy of their nursing or medical license to HDPRecruitment@ochca.com

Please note: This is a volunteer position and no compensation is provided. However, the opportunity to contribute to the health and safety of our community is invaluable.

We look forward to reviewing your application and potentially welcoming you to our team.
